

THE

A journal for the moral, thinking man

FLAME

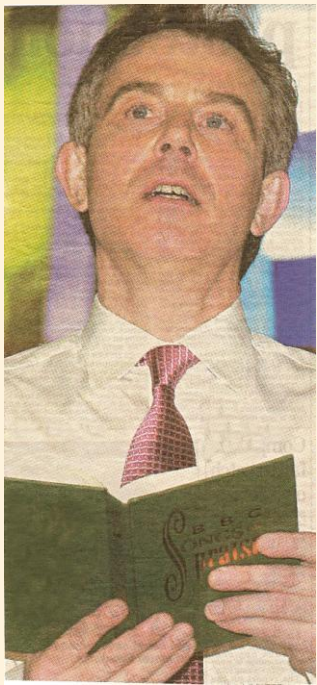

Last updated 20th Nov 2017

TONY BLAIR AND HIS ANTI-CHRIST MISSION

Tony Blair is now leading an attack on Christianity. Before we look at his new venture we should examine his political track record.

If the British were not so disunited, Tony Blair would today be serving a life sentence for treason against the nation and crimes against humanity. He, along with George Bush, has destabilised a large part of the Middle East and been responsible for thousands of deaths in the process. For that purpose he put our armed forces at the disposal of a private body that calls itself "The New World Order". This is an organisation which seeks the destruction of Britain. His misuse of the military, has led to a rapid build up of Islamic terrorist organisations around the world. Not satisfied with that, millions of angry Muslims have been invited to come and live among us. (It has now been contrived by Parliament and the EU that even known terrorists cannot be deported.)

While acting as Prime Minister, without hesitation he implemented policies designed to bring about the genocide of our race, and the enslavement of the citizens of these islands under an EU socialist-bloc state. He now calmly moves on to attack our nation in a different way and acts as though he has done nothing wrong. (See on the left Blair play-acting as usual.)

Tony Blair's Government managed to outlaw vital parts of Christianity in a number of devious ways. At the same time, Satanists and sodomites were elevated to privileged positions and protected by new laws. Muslims have been given licence to do more or less as they please without fear of arrest or deportation. The British public now have no say on what is happening to their country. However, neither Tony Blair, Gordon Brown nor David Cameron have any original political ideas of their own! They do not need them, for they merely carry out whatever orders their powerful anti-nationalist masters set them.

In April 2008 Tony Blair launched his neo-Satanic inter-faith group at Westminster Cathedral, with a lecture called "Faith and Globalisation". Sir Sigmund Sternberg said he was "very encouraged by what he had to say". "He can bring people together across faiths. I am very impressed with what he is going to do and I will give him all the help he needs. He will be very successful." That is a predictable response, seeing how Judaism has been deemed sacrosanct and will therefore be immune and remain unaffected by the work of the inter-faith movement. It is Christianity that is under attack - and the other religions, coupled with liberalism and Marxism, are the intended means to bring Christianity to an end.

Sir Sigmund Sternberg, a leader of the Jewish community, was in fact a co-founder of the Three Faiths Forum. However, we expect Tony Blair, despite his unpopularity, to be put forward as its prime-mover. This inter-faith watering down of Christianity is nothing new. During the 1970's nationalists and Christians helped bring an end to the activities of the "World Council of Churches". This body had the same aims as the new Sternberg/Blair initiative. The defeat of this anti-Christian Council was achieved by widely distributing a book by the Catholic writer, the Rev Fahey called, "The Fraudulent Gospel". In that book he exposed the motives behind the inter-faith movement.

Those who keep a close watch on the company that Tony Blair and Gordon Brown keep know they will not be batting for Christians. Although the Christian church has been heavily infiltrated by anti-Christian Marxists and Zionists there are still many defenders of our faith who are aware of this ancient plot to destroy Christianity by bringing them together in a mish-mash of religion-free, perceived do-gooding. This destruction by mixing is the same method with which multi-racialism and multi-culturalism are being used to wipe-out the white race and destroy civilisation. Nowhere is the effect of globalist anti-nationalism more apparent than in South Africa and Zimbabwe (the once glorious Rhodesia).

Both the Protestant and Catholic Churches need to shut Tony Blair out. As an agent of anti-Christ users, he poses a threat that can easily be dealt with by making it clear that we are aware of his evil intent and not allowing him to gain a foothold.

Contact us: the.flame.contact@gmail.com